PROFILE

Bapu started his musical journey at the age of 18 and became so obsessed with the flute that he started idolizing Pt.Hariprasad Chaurasia as his Guru.He purchased all audio cassettes of Hariji and started imitating his style.He practiced for years together.In August 1999,Bapu met his Guru who admitted him to his class after a demonstration recital.

His effort of blending tradition to the modernity were often transparent and went beyond reductionist ideological positions. On the other hand the textures of his expressions supported by sound patterns and an intense experimental content made him most significant musician of postmodern India. Bapu's Music has been released by "Ministry of External Affairs Government of India" under the title's "Music as therapy". Bapu also trying to institutionalize his thoughts by establishing "Aantardhwani" which aims at linking modern problems to traditional root of sound and spirituality through a creative expressions.
